

THE NATIONAL WAR COLLEGE

OFFICE OF THE COMMANDANT

WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

24 April 1951

Dear Dr. Millikan:

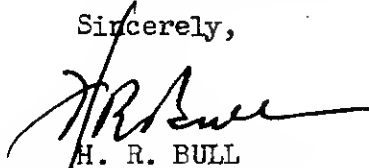

I am happy that you will be able to be with us during our Economics Week this year. I know you are quite busy in your new assignment at CIA, and I realize this is an extra burden on you, but I do appreciate your willingness to help us out.

We are in the process of preparing our course in Economics, and as soon as it is completed I will send you a copy. You no doubt will be scheduled to give one lecture. The course begins at 8:45, Monday morning, 10 September, and ends at 4:45, Friday, 14 September. Our lectures, as you remember, are at 8:45 and are one hour in length. They are followed by a short question period and later a "coffee hour" discussion which lasts until noontime. These discussion groups consist of approximately 24 students each. Dr. Masland from Dartmouth will head up our Civilian Faculty next fall.

The afternoons during this week, except where noted in the Outline of Course, are devoted to committee discussions which usually relate to the four topics which we have assigned for their terminal discussion. We feel that many of these committees may wish to contact you informally for guidance during these afternoon periods.

Again, I am happy that you will be able to be with us this fall. If you have any further questions please drop me a note.

Sincerely,

H. R. BULL
Lieutenant General, U. S. Army
Commandant
